SUC President III
Mindoro State University
Alcate, Victoria, Oriental Mindoro

Madam President,

Good day!

This is to respectfully submit the project proposal entitled "Banana Industry Development and Sustainability Program (BIDSP) for the Victoria Banana Growers Association (VBGA)" under the Extension Services Unit of the University.

The project was conceptualized in response to the request of the Victoria Banana Growers Association (VBGA) for technical assistance and capacity-building support. It is scheduled for implementation from June 2026 to December 2027 and aims to assist VBGA members through capability-building activities, technical assistance, and the establishment of a 2,500-square-meter Banana Demonstration Farm in Victoria, Oriental Mindoro. This initiative is designed to enhance farmers' production practices, strengthen their technical skills, and improve household income through more sustainable banana farming systems.

To support the establishment and operationalization of the demonstration farm, a total budget of Php 57,900.00 is proposed to be charged to the Extension Services Unit–MDS Fund.

In this regard, the undersigned respectfully requests your favorable consideration and approval of this proposal to facilitate its timely implementation and further strengthen our extension services for the benefit of the banana growers of Victoria.

Thank you very much for your time and continued support for our extension programs and projects.

II. Rationale

Banana farming in Victoria, Oriental Mindoro has significant potential to improve rural livelihoods, enhance food security, and contribute to local economic development. The Victoria Banana Growers Association (VBGA), a Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE)-registered organization established in 2025, is composed of 100 members, each cultivating at least 100 banana plants of varieties such as Saba, Señorita, Lakatan, and Latundan.

Despite the promising opportunities in banana production, VBGA members continue to face several challenges that limit productivity and profitability. Most farmers still rely on traditional farming practices, resulting in inconsistent yields and variable fruit quality. They are also highly vulnerable to pests and diseases, which threaten crop survival and reduce farm income. The absence of a demonstration farm limits opportunities for hands-on learning and the adoption of modern, climate-resilient agricultural technologies. Furthermore, postharvest losses and unstable market prices reduce farmers' income stability and weaken their bargaining power in the marketplace.

To address these concerns, the Victoria Banana Growers Association seeks technical assistance from the Extension Services Unit of Mindoro State University (MinSU). The proposed collaboration will focus on the following key interventions:

- Conducting structured training programs on banana production and management practices;
- Providing technical guidance on pest and disease prevention and control strategies; and
- Establishing a Banana Demonstration Farm in Victoria to serve as a learning and technology showcase site.

Through these interventions, VBGA members will gain practical knowledge and skills necessary to adopt innovative and sustainable farming practices. The project is expected to improve productivity, enhance product quality, reduce crop losses, and strengthen the overall capacity of farmers to manage banana enterprises effectively.

Ultimately, the initiative aims not only to improve banana cultivation but also to empower farmers, strengthen community resilience, increase household incomes, and position the Victoria Banana Growers Association as a model for sustainable agricultural development in Oriental Mindoro.

III. Objectives

General Objective

To strengthen the capacity of the Victoria Banana Growers Association (VBGA) in the sustainable production, management, and marketing of banana crops through technical assistance, capability-building activities, and the establishment of a Banana Demonstration Farm in partnership with the Extension Services Unit of Mindoro State University (MinSU).

Specific Objectives

1. To provide comprehensive training to VBGA members on banana production and management practices, including land preparation, planting, fertilization, irrigation, crop maintenance, and postharvest handling, to improve productivity and fruit quality.
2. To enhance farmers' knowledge and skills in the prevention, identification, and management of common banana pests and diseases, thereby reducing crop losses and increasing farm resilience.
3. To establish a Banana Demonstration Farm in Victoria that will serve as a practical learning center showcasing modern, climate-resilient, and sustainable banana farming technologies and practices.
4. To improve the productivity, profitability, and sustainability of banana farming among VBGA members, leading to increased household incomes, poverty reduction, and enhanced local food security.
5. To strengthen institutional collaboration between the Victoria Banana Growers Association and Mindoro State University by promoting continuous knowledge transfer, technical support, and community-based agricultural development initiatives aligned with national development goals and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

IV. Methodology

The Banana Industry Development and Sustainability Program (BIDSP) will employ a participatory and capacity-building approach that combines training, demonstration, technical assistance, monitoring, and evaluation to enhance the knowledge, skills, and productivity of members of the Victoria Banana Growers Association (VBGA).

Phase 1. Project Preparation and Baseline Assessment

Prior to implementation, a coordination meeting will be conducted between Mindoro State University (MinSU), the Victoria Banana Growers Association (VBGA), and relevant local government stakeholders to discuss project objectives, activities, schedules, and expected outputs.

A baseline assessment will be undertaken to determine the status of banana production practices, existing challenges, pest and disease incidence, production levels, and training needs of the farmer-beneficiaries. Data gathered will serve as the basis for designing appropriate interventions and measuring project outcomes.

Activities:

- Conduct Stakeholder consultation and project orientation
- Profile VBGA members and their farms
- Assess current farming practices and production constraints
- Identify training and technical assistance needs
- Prepare the project implementation plan

Phase 2. Capacity Building and Technical Training

A series of training-workshops will be conducted to strengthen the technical competencies of VBGA members in sustainable banana production and farm management. The training sessions will utilize lectures, demonstrations, hands-on exercises, group discussions, and field visits.

- Farm record-keeping and enterprise management

Phase 3. Establishment and Banana Demonstration Farm

A Banana Demonstration Farm will be established in a strategic location within Victoria, Oriental Mindoro. The demonstration farm will serve as a living laboratory where farmers can observe and practice improved production technologies and sustainable farming techniques.

The site will showcase:

- Recommended banana varieties
- Proper planting distance and field layout
- Soil fertility management practices
- Integrated pest and disease management strategies
- Water conservation and climate-resilient technologies
- Good Agricultural Practices (GAP)

Activities

- Conduct regular farm monitoring visits
- Provide on-site technical advice and troubleshooting
- Facilitate farmer-to-farmer learning exchange
- Organize field days and technology demonstrations
- Document best practices and success stories

Phase 5. Monitoring, Evaluation, and Documentation

Monitoring and evaluation will be conducted throughout the project to assess progress, identify challenges, and measure project impacts.

Key Performance Indicators:

- Number of farmers trained
- Number of training sessions conducted
- Establishment and functionality of the demonstration
- Adoption rate of recommended technologies
- Reduction in pest and disease incidence

Introduction

On June 10, 2026, sixty local farmers from the Victoria Banana Growers Association gathered at the Mindoro State University Agri-Eco Building Conference Room to participate in the Banana Industry Development and Sustainability Program training. Despite Victoria's booming banana industry, growers continuously face the critical problem of shifting traditional agricultural habits toward highly efficient, resource-optimized, and sustainable practices. This training initiative served as a comprehensive proposed solution to address these productivity gaps and climate vulnerabilities. The overarching goals and objectives of the project were to equip local stakeholders with innovative, cutting-edge strategies, elevate regional output quality, maximize resource management, and foster community-led extension services. By formalizing sustainable methodologies, the training established a resilient foundation for long-term agricultural livelihoods across the municipality.

Knowledge or Learning Acquired

Participants and growers acquired invaluable agricultural competencies from distinguished Mindoro State University resource speakers. Under the guidance of Ma'am Elisa M. Agoncillo, the attendees learned crucial modern strategies for community extension and sustainable development frameworks. Concurrently, Sir Edgardo S. Agoncillo provided deep insights into maximizing production efficiency, utilizing advanced resource management tools, and implementing innovative techniques to strengthen harvest resiliency against market and environmental shifts.

Observations

During the conduct of the training, staff observed immense enthusiasm from the sixty local farmers, yet encountered logistical and technical constraints within the venue. Minor delays surfaced due to initial technical troubleshooting with the display setup and presentation equipment. Furthermore, participants expressed critical additional needs not originally included in the pre-conduct discussion, emphasizing a demand for direct access to subsidized high-yield seedlings and localized pest-management tools.

Recommendation/s

To conclude, the identified technical difficulties were efficiently resolved on-site by deploying standalone technical support personnel prior to session commencements. To fully address the additional needs raised by the growers, it is highly recommended that future training programs establish direct partnership channels with agricultural suppliers to supply physical input packages. The overall quality of subsequent activities can be further improved by extending the program into a multi-day practical workshop, ensuring ample time for hands-on application of the resource theories.

Photo Documentation

Ma'am Elisa M. Agoncillo (Director for Extension Services) – guided our growers on community extension, and sustainable development.

Sir Edgardo S. Agoncillo (Director for Production and Resource Generation) – shared crucial insights on maximizing production efficiency and resource management.

After all the presentations, the participants answered the evaluation sheets which will be used to improve the future extension services of Mindoro State University – Main Campus.
